Creating rewarding partnerships

DMAW Lawyers' at Treasure Boxes

Creating rewarding partnerships by connecting corporates (small businesses to large corporates) with volunteer involving organisations (community, not-for-profit and sporting groups) to achieve positive social and community outcomes. Corporate Volunteering is a key component to wellbeing programs, providing employees with paid leave (1-2 days a year) to contribute their time, knowledge, and skills to volunteer for a worthy cause. There are two types of Corporate Volunteering.

Teams-based

Volunteer groups undertake an activity as a team either indoors or outdoors eg. gardening, painting, packing food hampers, creating walking paths, preparing and packing meals.

Skills-based

Individual volunteers offer their personal knowledge, expertise, and skills eg: HR, Finance, IT or Marketing.

Major Benefits to VIOs

Access to a register of willing and available volunteers (for major tasks or events).

Transfer of skills, knowledge and technical expertise to staff and volunteers.

Developing ongoing partnerships.

Potential to create new income streams for community projects.

Improving understanding and appreciation between corporates and community sectors.

Increasing public awareness of community issues.

With respected connections to corporates, we manage everything for you – creating rewarding partnerships through a customised program that will work for your volunteer involving organisation.

This includes:

Establishing a formalised and ongoing Corporate Volunteering program focusing on team or skills-based experiences.

Identifying and sourcing potential corporates with a workforce who are eager to volunteer.

Managing key aspects of the volunteering experiences (eg. Liaising with corporates, pre-planning).

Promoting the volunteering experiences and achievements (where applicable).

No fee is charged to the volunteer involving organisation.

To participate in this program or for more information on the types of experiences corporate volunteers are looking for, please contact Volunteering SA&NT's Corporate Volunteering Program Coordinator.
